TOURISTS THRONG NEW LONDON HOTEL

Many Automobile Parties Are Spending Week-End at the Mohican.

NEW LONDON, Aug. 6.-The season s at its height here now and in New London, the heart of the summer playground of the Bast, the more material ffairs of life have given place to boating, fishing, bathing, golf, tennis, and other outdoor sports that bring tan to he cheek and luster to the eye.

The cheek and luster to the eye.

Tourists coming from the Atlantic and the Pacific and from the Canadian border to the Mexican, throng the city. As a matter of fact, it probably would be difficult to discover a hamlet in any part of the country where New London is not a familiar name, either through personal visit or through knowledge obtained by perusal of newspapers and magazines.

While social activities were evident in all the fashionable colonies included in the city, thesevent of events for the week was the arrival on Thursday of the New York Yacht Club fleet on its annual cruise.

Former students of Gonzaga College, which is attached to St. Aloysius' Church and under the tutelage of Jesuit priests, officiated at the mass. The Rev. John J. Meagher, S. J., delivered a sermon on the life of Saint Ignatius.
Father Meagher is a graduate of Gonzaga College and was ordained a priest only a few weeks ago. The Rev. William J. Brooks, of the class of '91 of Gonzaga, College, was the celebrant of the mass. The Rev. Owen A. Hiel, S. J., professor of philosophy at Fordham University, was the deacon, and the Rev. Joseph J. Cavanaugh, S. J., was the subdeacon.

Although the fleet did not remain over the week-end, as had previously been the custom, the brilliant night illumination of the hundreds of graceful craft assembled in the harbor, their owners representing the wealth and fashion of the nation, has never been surpassed.

The racing section of the squadron, which affords the chief sport of the cruise, included several of the large schooner yachts, among them the Elena, owned by Commodore Morton P. Plant, of Eastern Point.

Across the harbor lies the greatest chain of fortifications in the United States—Forts Wright, Terry, Michie, and Mansfield—guarding the channels which lead into Long Island sound and the eastern approach to New York.

One of these island garrisons—Terry, located on Plum island—has been the mecca for mothers, fathers, sixters, and brothers of 1,200 sturdy little fellows who are learning the secret of preparedness at a training camp there under the direction of army officers.

Many of the boys are sons of millionaires, and steam and power yachts surround the island daily with doting parents on board.

Land Sand Sharks.

Land Sard Sharks.

New London has no man-eating sharks of which to boast or rather to avoid mention in the public press, but several angiers this week discovered a new thrill in catching with hook and line specimens of the harmless sand species. One young woman fishing off Ocean Beach for anything that might bite, landed a sand shark three and one-half feet long.

The action of our convention probably will urge non-support of President Wilson, leaving the women free to cast their votes in any of the other parties, all of which are now on report for the constitutional amendment. This naturally would mean the bulk of the support for Mr. Hughes.

"We make no claim that 4,000,000 women will vote one way or another. In the first place, we conlidn't get that many to the polls. In the second place we are making no appeal to those women on who are party-bound. Nevertheless, the President's campaign leaders have been informed that on this issue women Democrats cannot be held is line if the President continues his present attitude." nati. was the winner in the ladies' di-vision with a total of 81. Public garages, of which a new one is built almost weekly, find it difficult to accommodate the endless procession of motorists who pause here for a night or more. Every inchr of space opposite the broad and imposing front of the Mohican Hotel, the city's most famous hostelry, is occupied day and evening by an ever-changing line of cars, and one might gain the impression of attending a motor exposition by pausing their for a brief period.

From now on, until wefl after Labor Day, yachtmen in their natty uniforms, naval officers in spotless white, beautifully gowned women, and tourists in shining automobiles, with flying penshining automobiles, with flying pen-nants, will add to the picturesqueness of this quaint, yet modern, city by the ST. LOUIS, Aug. 6.—The safe and sane method of eating watermelon was used at a party given to thirty girls and their chaperons at Piasa Chautauqua by Miss Mildred Haynes, of East St. Louis.

After a swim in the pool, the party, clad in their dripping bathing suits and raincoata invaded the restaurant and ordered watermelon.

The watermelon was enjoyed with perfect safety, the seeds and spray making no impression on the raincoats and bathing suits. The swimming party was a strictly feminine affair.

Peace Comes to China, CLOSER TO BORDER Writes Sun Yat-Sen

Former Chinese President, Later an Exile, and Now. Restored to Position of Influence, Sees Hope . Under New President, Li Yuen Hung.

Dr. Sun declares that under the restored republic that has followed the climination of Yuan, there is reason to hope that the expectations of republican China may be realized.

For himself, Dr. Sun says that, while he is out of politics, he is consulted by Li Yuen Hung, the acting president, on all important matters, both domestic and foreign.

The restoration of the Sun influence in China is a matter of the greatest international interest and significance. Sun is perhaps the most widely acquainted of the Chinese revolutionary leaders; a man of education, refinement, strictly modern and Ossodental ideas and ideals.

Dr. Sun's Influence Returns.

Dr Sun's Influence Returns. Some of his enemies have latterly tried to discredit him, but have failed ative patrol has been put into effect, the sone along the border will be "the most dangerous place on the continent for bandits and the safest place in the world for residents."

In the meantime, Administration officials express strong belief that there are excellent prospects for real results in the coming peace conference. It will not only solve the military difficulties facing the two countries as a result of the border situation, they say,

That conditions in China have ten direct to the States since the death of Yuan Shi Rai, and that States Pour Vallon, Shanghai, July 5, 1884. there is every reason to expect this betterment will continue, as the confident expression of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, first president of the Chinese republic, in a letter written to his American representative, Austin P. The situation owing to Yuan Shih Kai's death, has entirely changed, and there was nothing to do but to save the country, and I worked for a compounts between the north and the south. I am glad to say that my effort has been successful.

Present Head Constitutional. According to the constitution, Lo Tues Hung has filled the Presidency. He is not of Yuan Shih Kans type, and seems to be anxious to please the people. Anyway, he did not unite in the intrigue to crown Yuan Emperor. He seeks my advice upon all important national and foreign af-fairs, and though I am not peraph-ally in the political arena, my inqu-ence is as strong as ever, and the people are one with me. Country in State of Evolution.

Country in State of Evolution.

The country is going from worst to better and I am satisfied with the changed condition and hope that everything will work out for the good of the country.

With reference to the clipping—"China's Stolen God Finally Recovered"—you sent, I state that it is the most ridiculous and absurd invention I ever read of in any newspaper, and I hope that you will give publicity to my statement. I believe it was created by a man who wished to discredit me as much as possible.

Wonders Who Stuart Is. This Henry Clifford Stuart had sent me many open letters and notes, but I never took any notice of them, nor I never took any notice of them, nor had any correspondence with him.

I wonder who he is and why he delighted in such nonsensical creations? Certainly it could hardly be a sane man who would spend his time in creating sensational trash.

In closing, I wish to thank you again for whatever assistance you have given me and hope that you will let me hear from you frequently.

You may publish this letter.

With best wishes, I am

Yours sincerely,
